To add Yahoo, go to Settings > Passwords & Accounts > Add Account > Yahoo, enter Yahoo address, and tap Next > Password > Sign in. To set sync frequency, go to Settings > Passwords & Accounts > Fetch New Data > Yahoo > Fetch and select the frequency. To remove an account, go to Settings > Passwords & Accounts > Yahoo > Delete Account > Delete from My iPhone. This article explains how to sync a Yahoo Calendar with an iPhone calendar. Instructions apply to iPhones with iOS 12, iOS 11, or iOS 10. Yahoo Calendar is available on the iPhone as part of a linked Yahoo Mail account. With Yahoo Calendar activated, events appear in your iPhone calendar automatically. Setting up Yahoo Calendar and the iPhone Calendar to synchronize in the background is easy. Any changes to the Calendar updates on both the iPhone and your Yahoo account. If you have not yet added the Yahoo as an email account to iPhone Mail: Open iPhone Settings and tap Passwords & Accounts. Tap Add Account in the Accounts section. Choose Yahoo from the list of preconfigured providers. Type your full Yahoo Mail address where it says Enter Your Email and tap Next. Enter your Yahoo Mail password under Password and tap Sign in. Move the slider next to Calendars to the On/green position. Also move the sliders for Mail, Reminders, Contacts, and Notes. Tap Save. If you added Yahoo to your Mail account previously, you might not have turned on the Calendar feature. To check this, go to Settings > Passwords & Accounts > Yahoo and confirm the slider next to Calendars is set to On/green. If not, turn it on. To set up the frequency your iPhone checks for Yahoo mail and calendar additions: Return to Settings > Passwords & Accounts. Tap Fetch New Data at the bottom of the screen. Tap the Yahoo account entry. Check Fetch. Select Fetch New Data at the top of the screen to return to the previous screen. Scroll to the bottom of the screen and tap the frequency you want the iPhone to sync with non-iCloud Mail accounts. If you find that your account isn't syncing properly, you should delete and then re-add your Yahoo account. To remove a synced Yahoo Calendar account from your iPhone: Tap Settings on the iPhone Home screen. Select Passwords & Accounts. Tap your Yahoo account. Tap Delete Account and confirm the deletion by tapping Delete from My iPhone in the pop-up window. Thanks for letting us know! Get the Latest Tech News Delivered Every Day Subscribe Tell us why! By Joshua Lund i Jupiterimages/BananaStock/Getty Images To get the best possible use out of your iPhone, you need to sync it with your computer. With iPhones, all syncing is performed via iTunes. In iTunes, you will then choose what you want to sync; for instance, you can choose to sync the device with Microsoft Outlook. This will allow you to sync your iPhone contacts, calendars and memos with your computer—a useful option if you use both devices independently, but wish to keep them together. Connect your iPhone via USB to your computer. iTunes will automatically open. Click your iPhone name under "Devices." Click "Microsoft Outlook" under the "Contacts" list. Repeat this with "Calendars," "Mail Accounts" and "Notes," if you wish. This will sync the applications with Outlook. Click "Apply," and then "Sync." Come September, scheduling meetings with your mobile phone calendar may get easier. That's when HandStep will be officially releasing TeamCalendar, software designed to aid planning, scheduling and booking meetings. Based on Microsoft's Outlook platform and compatible with all Windows-based smartphones, pocket PCs and PDAs, the product gives a quick graphic view of all proposed attendees' schedules with a view of scheduling conflicts. Using a function called "SmartPlanning," the software will also suggest best times for meetings and will e-mail all participating team members for confirmation. TeamCalendar was exhibited at the Microsoft Worldwide Partner Conference in July, says Brian Nielsson, founder and board president of HandStep, a supplier of mobile applications. The original version of TeamCalendar was a custom application developed for the Danish Ministry of Social Affairs to allow the minister and his immediate staff to see one another's calendars and schedule meetings, a task that had been difficult previously. One of the things I love about Google Calendar is that it requires no desktop component. Sure, you can sync it with Outlook, but not everyone needs or wants a program like that just to manage appointments. Indeed, more and more people prefer to keep their calendars on their mobile phones, just as they do their address books. If you do use Outlook, you've probably already configured it to sync with your phone. If not, or if, like me, you're trying to migrate away from that unwieldy beast, look no further than Google Sync—a free service that syncs mobile phones with Google Calendar. And not just Google Calendar, but also Google Contacts and Gmail. The service works with BlackBerry, iPhone, and Nokia S60 devices. (Why not Android? Because Google's mobile OS already syncs with the various Google services, natch. As for the Palm Pre and Pixi, they can sync with Google right out of the box.) Google provides all the instructions you need for configuring and using Google Sync, so I won't rehash them here. My goal is simply to explain why it's a good idea. If you're already a Google Calendar user, it should be pretty obvious: Sync brings a copy of your schedule to your phone—and keeps both versions up to date. Handy! If you're not a Google Calendar user, Sync effectively gives you an online backup of your schedule—something that could prove invaluable if your phone gets broken, lost, stolen, etc. Plus, there's much to be said for having a calendar that's accessible from any Web-enabled device (desktop, netbook, iPad, etc.). Same goes for your contacts. By Randall Blackburn i Photodisc/Photodisc/Getty Images To transfer your iPhone calendar to Outlook, configure the iPhone to synchronize with your Outlook client using iTunes or iCloud. Once you set up syncing with iCloud, the iPhone automatically transfers your iPhone calendar to your Outlook calendar over the air. You can also use iTunes to perform a transfer of your iPhone calendar data to Outlook. In iTunes, you can select all calendars or specific calendars to sync between Outlook and the iPhone. You don't need to sync mail and contacts at the same time when you use iTunes. You can sync only calendars. Connect the iPhone to the computer using the iPhone USB cable. iTunes launches on the computer. If iTunes doesn't automatically launch, start the program. Click "Devices" and then click the name of the iPhone. Click the "Info" tab to open the Info screen. Click the check box in front of "Sync Calendars With" in the Calendars section of the Info page. Click the "Sync Calendars With" drop-down box, and then click the "Outlook" option to set up syncing with Outlook. Click "All Calendars" to sync all of your calendars, or click the "Select Calendars" option, and then click each calendar to transfer. Download and install iCloud Control Panel (link in Resources) if you don't already have it. Launch the iCloud Control Panel on the computer. Check the check box in front of the "Mail, Contacts, Calendars & Tasks" option. Click "Apply" to have iCloud automatically sync the iPhone with your Outlook calendar, contacts, email and tasks.
